The below list is not complete but if a head unit is listed we have confirmed it I know are compatible or not with the SonyPioneer Wired DCI. If your HU is not on this list it may still be compatible Look for compatibility with the CDMR70 You may have to check. If it does, the SonyPioneer Wired DCI. You cannot use Cdcleaner or liquid, must buff it using a Dremel tool. Cdcleaners go across the lens and actually scratch lens. Must use sponge like material Radio Shack had on the end of their Qtip type swabs for cleaning VCRtape heads, NOT reg. Qtips!. You can find that type material in soft sponges sold at auto stores for cars or Wall Mart. Some CDplayers require this because they are designed differently. Lens material also may have coating on it which interacts with liquids. Do not use liquid!

Take super glue and glue a piece of the sponge on the end of Dremel Tool shaft, trim it so it is size of lens. Dremel tool spins high RPM creating air that blows off particles before touching lens. Also, it creates a uniform buff because you are coming down above lens, not across it. Ive rebuilt several of these machines and I assure you this will help get you closer to fixing it. Most of the problems not reading a disc are related to the problem I mentioned. You will also need to use a fine 30 Wt. Does not take much, you can use a Qtip for this. CAUTION! do not press down on lens with any weight behind it, gradually lower sponge while spinning till it just touches lens! first step! You will need to open a disc drawer Unit Onto position lens so you can buff it. You might have to use your finger on little white gear by the railsto get lens out far enough. When positioning disc drawer to be out of the way, have one hand on electric cord to unplug in time so you have clear path to lens, disc drawer must be out of way. Good Luck! From Mike The Tech! I have a Scion xA with a Pioneer DEH150MP radio. However, it has refused to come on. I checked the fuse in the car and its OK. Is there another fuse attached to the radio OR is there a reset button The lens had fallen out and glued back in but it wont read. Where do I buy another laser pickup Got new battery and have pulower to radio. The FM frequencies are not compatible and neither is the map or GPS. There is also no way to change to English. Carrozzeria does a poor job of informing customers of this problem. The radio is superior to many but completely useless outside of Japan. You will want to send it back to them. Sorry. PS I have not verified if this works but it is worth it to try. Click on the link below and please let me know if this working. Good luck, JP Speakers is conected prope.
